Wyand High School
Wyand, Illinois

FOREWORD

High school years may be called the changeable years as we grow from a painful 5'2" substitute to the brawny Senior football captain, from the timid soul in pigtails to the regal Homecoming Queen, from the wondering observer to a probing explorer. But through the pages of the Wyhian we wish to depict a gallery of what is changeless in high school--the classic memories of those special years.

We wish to recall: a pep rally--where hope lifts the spirit, or the players' bench, where worry numbs it; the excitement of knowledge--the explosion in the chemistry lab or the creation of a new character on stage; the swelling strains of music, the medal given with the phrase, "Fine job;" the Prom--a sentimental gesture given by the juniors for the seniors, set in a make-believe world of dreamy music, formal gowns, and fragrant flowers; those unforgettable few moments of "Pomp and Circumstance"--heard with a sense of completion, but even more, a realization of the unexplored--a beginning.

Yes, for the Seniors who have trod this path of learning, memories of high school ring afresh--invaluable treasures to be enjoyed through life.

The underclassmen who have just stepped through the portals of high school will follow that same path to knowledge, perhaps perceiving differently, walking at a different pace, but journeying the same basic road . . . each class, each friend, each teacher will become part of his treasure of memories. A familiar song, hopeful struggles of that first term paper, a proudly displayed original creation, last minute cramming sessions, an unanswered question--Yes, this is High School . . .

Cokes . . . Chaos . . . Copy

Our deadlines met and each yearbook distributed, the annual staff has time to pause and reflect . . . empty coke cups, crumpled candy wrappers, scribbled copy, and discarded layouts--yes, informal night meetings inserted between other activities, extra study halls used as workshops, and jaunts from town to town soliciting patrons comprised our past year of work--and enjoyment in editing our yearbook.

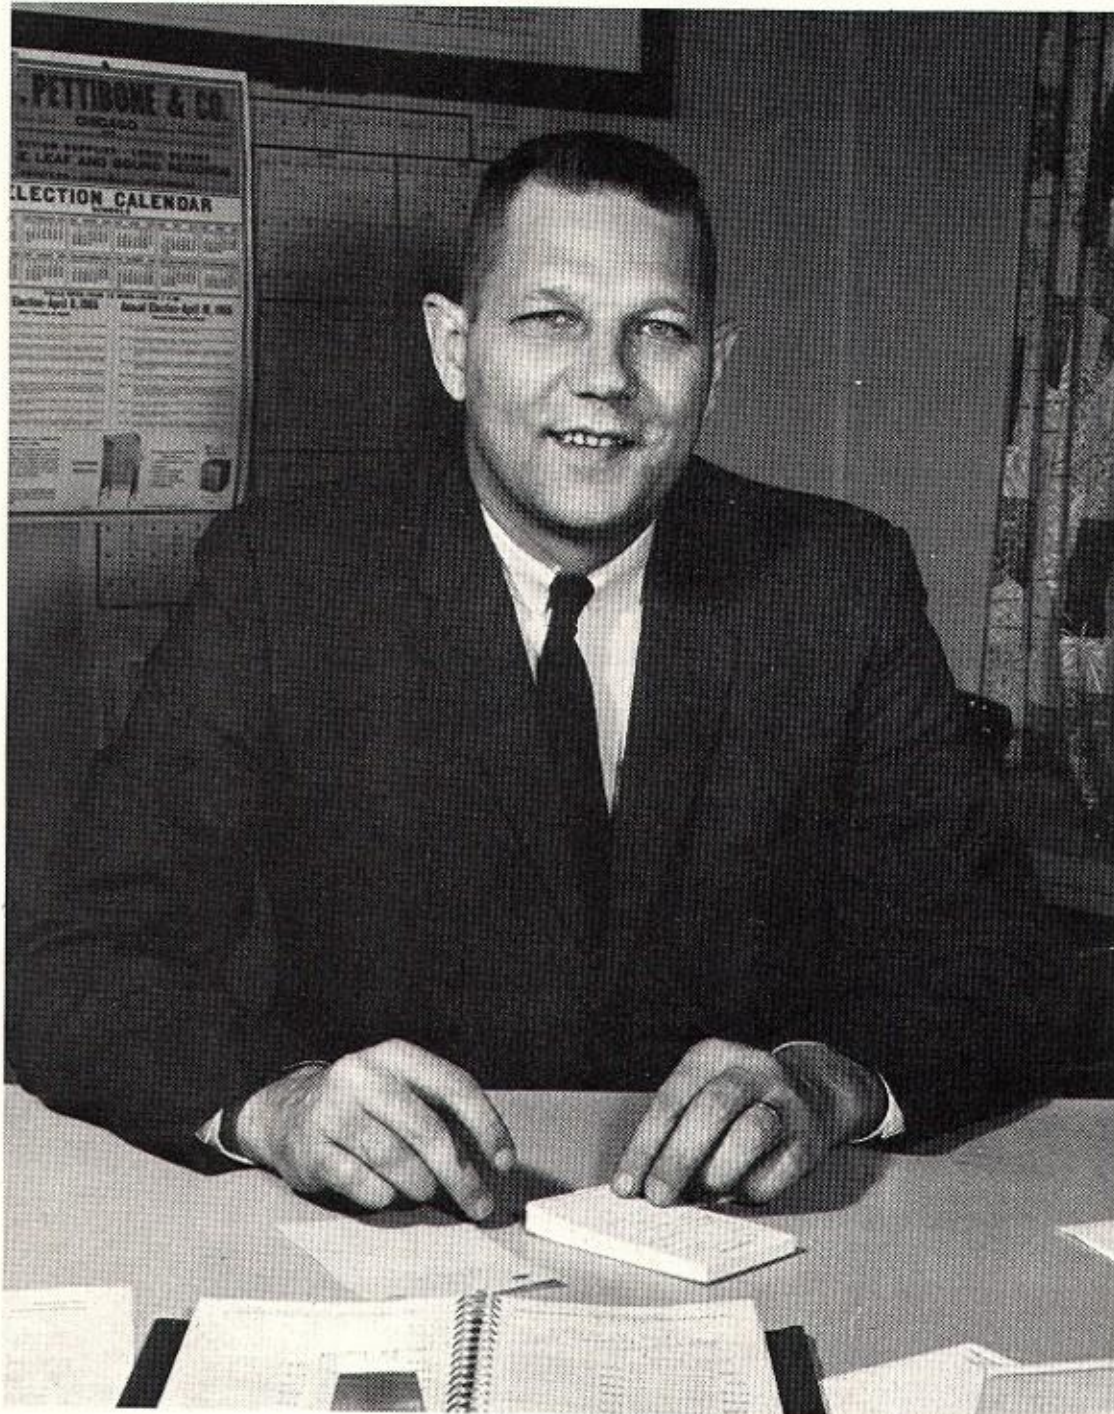

We sincerely hope the students, while leafing through the Wyhian, may recall many pleasant experiences of the 64-65 year at W.H.S.

ADMINISTRATION

Furnishing Foundations Through

The difficult, detailed job of our school's administration lies in the capable hands of Mr. William Poorbaugh, an able and genial administrator, who recognizes the importance of developing both well-educated citizens and socially developed personalities and contributes his help and understanding in our academic and extracurricular activities.

As an educator of tomorrow's leaders, he faces many problems and responsibilities--meetings to attend, supplies to obtain, teachers to hire, and two school systems to supervise. In addition, he has accepted the duties of the presidency of the Little 8 Conference.

His many duties leave few spare moments in the course of a day; yet there is always time for a smile in Mr. Poorbaugh's busy schedule.

So to you, Mr. Poorbaugh, we add our thanks for all of your help and consideration.

Mr. Amdal can be found in a busy science room among the clamor of students or in the quiet depths of his office, counseling with a student on future plans.

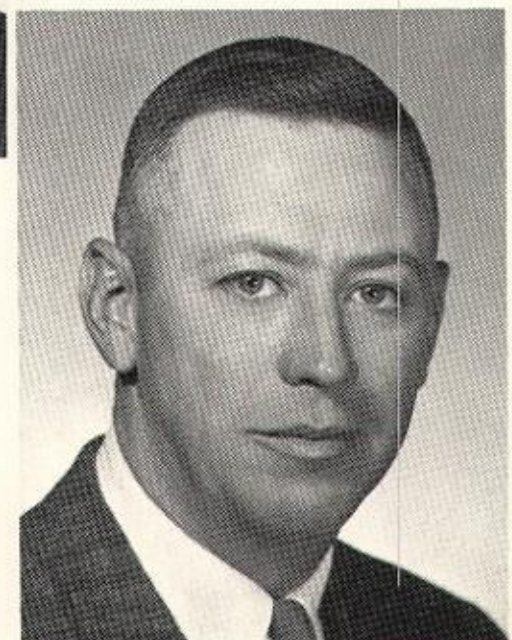

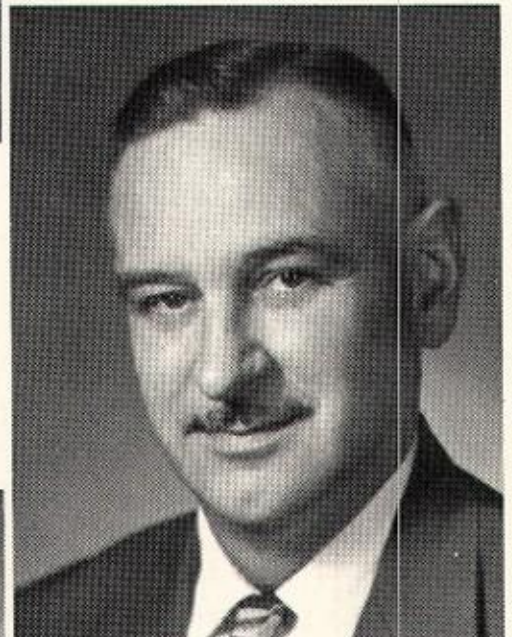

In addition to teaching physics and chemistry and counseling students on colleges and careers, he assists Mr. Poorbaugh in supervising the high school student body.

He, too, takes time out of his busy day for a friendly greeting for students and faculty.

Work, Worry, and Wisdom

Always on hand to help decide on important matters, plan our schedule and keep our school running smoothly, our Board of Education: James Richmond, president, Howard Wampler, secretary, George Anderson, Fred Feuer, Cecil Krager, Merle Madison, Bernard Martin.

Srs.—with Memories of the Past,

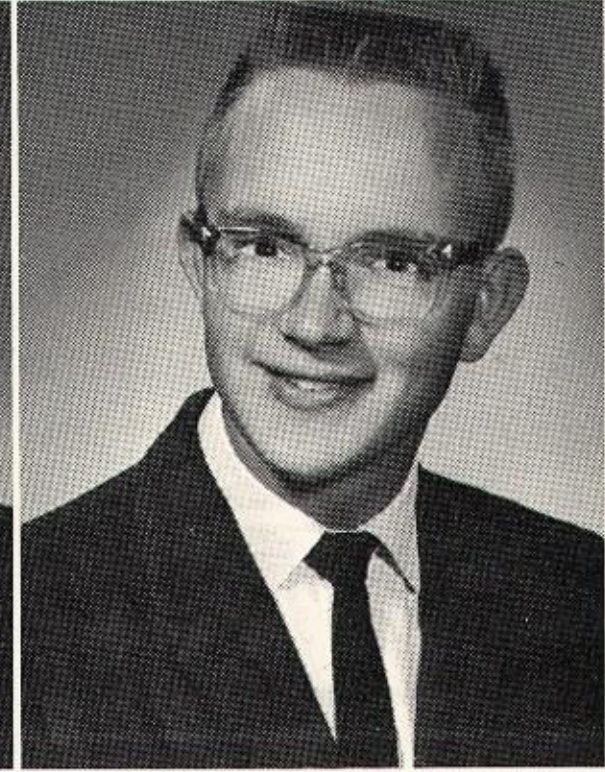

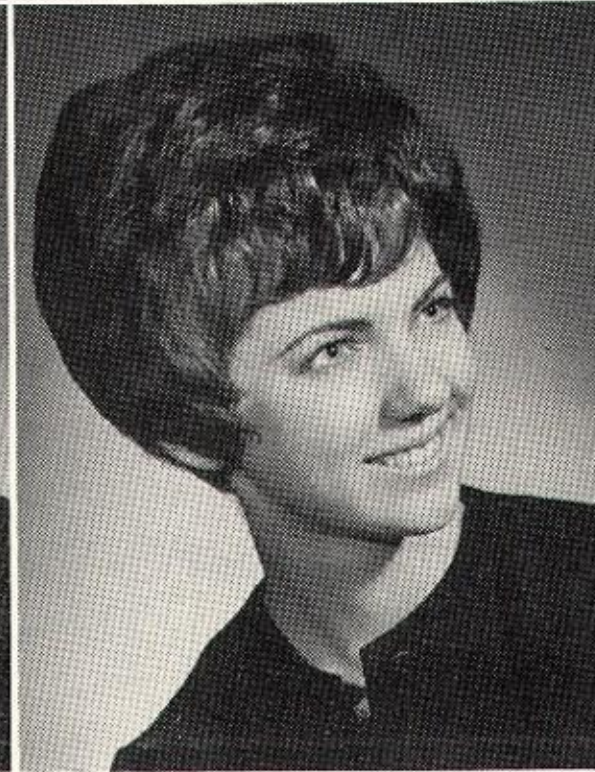

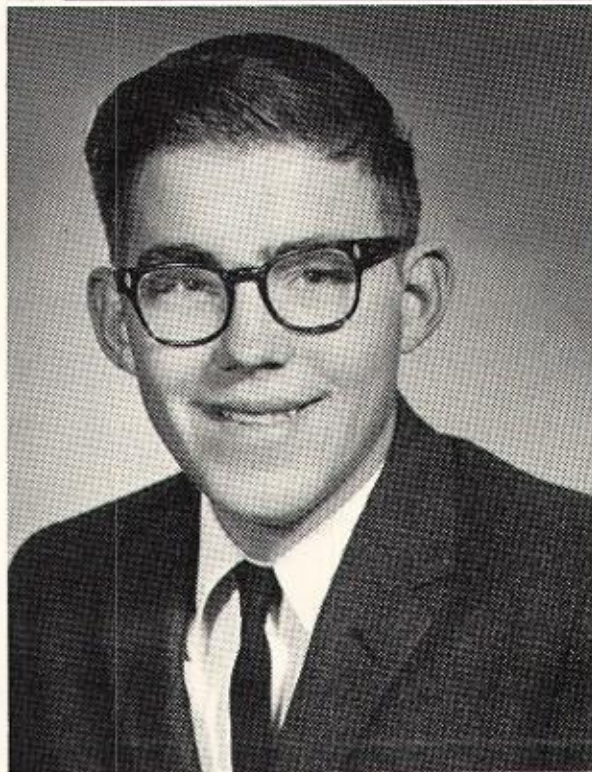

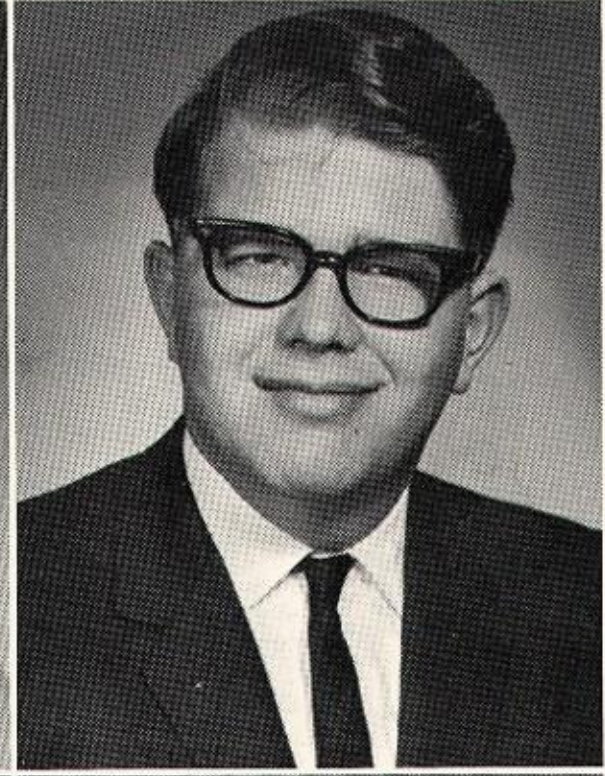

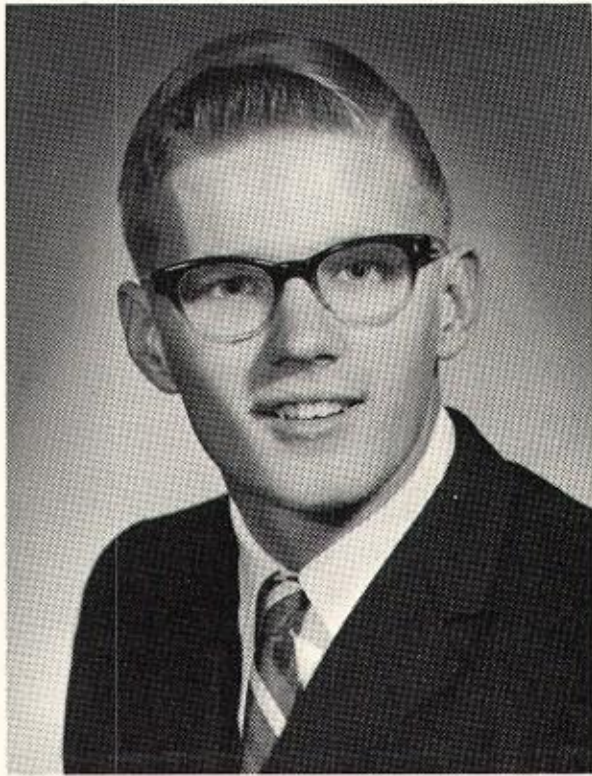

With responsibilities anew, Seniors found leisure time scarce as they planned Homecoming, edited the '65 Wyhian, investigated plans for the future, and willed prized possessions to unsuspecting juniors. Yes, these were the seniors rushing around trying to cram those last priceless moments into a hectic final year of high school.

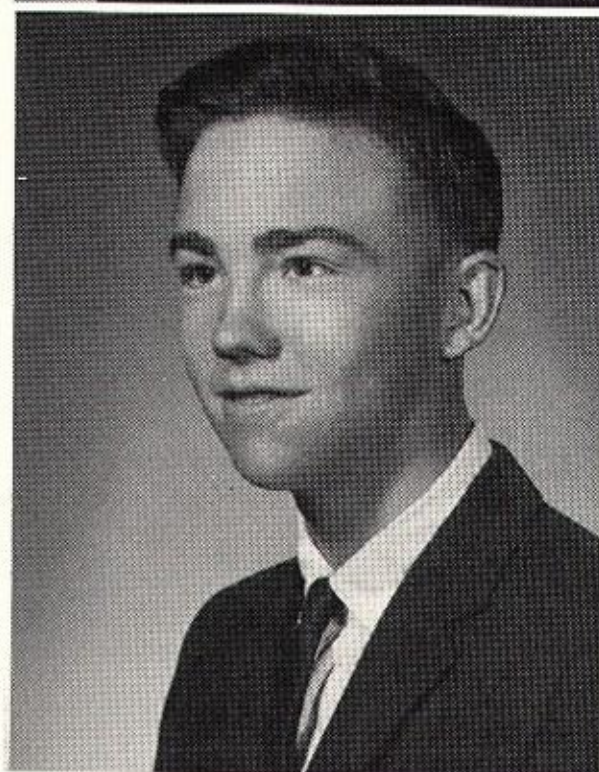

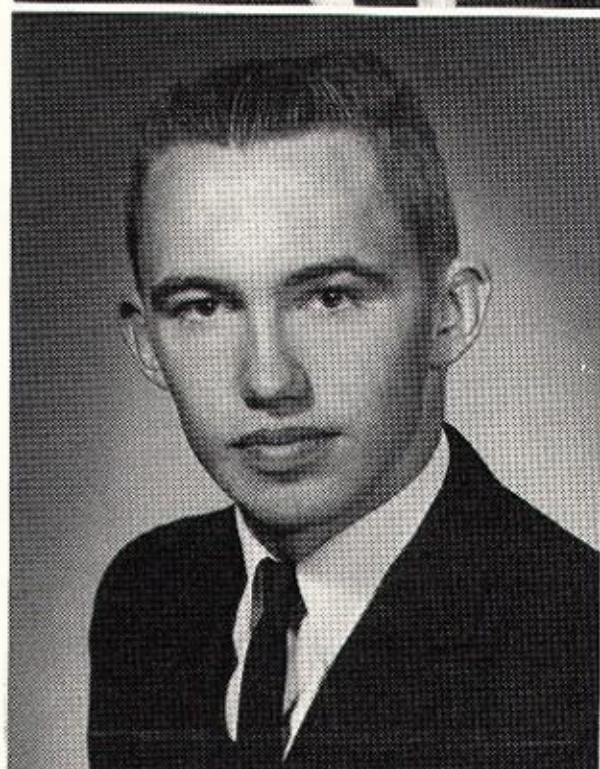

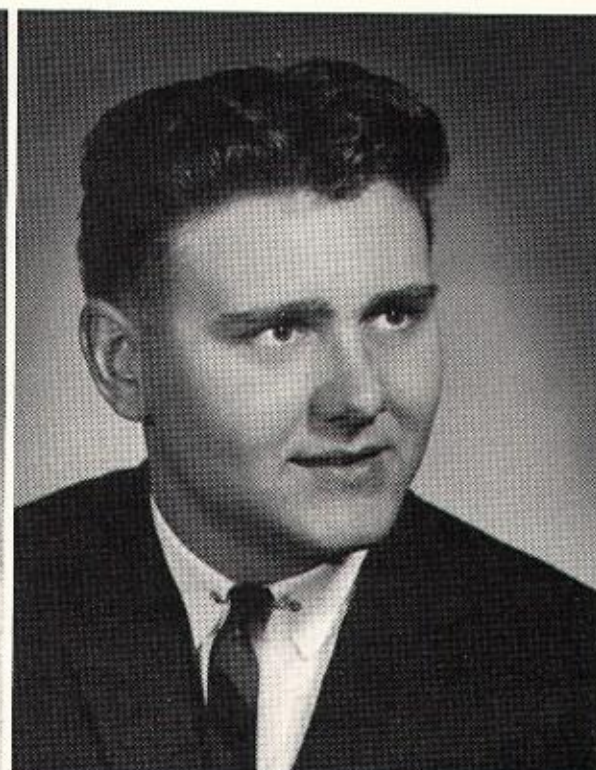

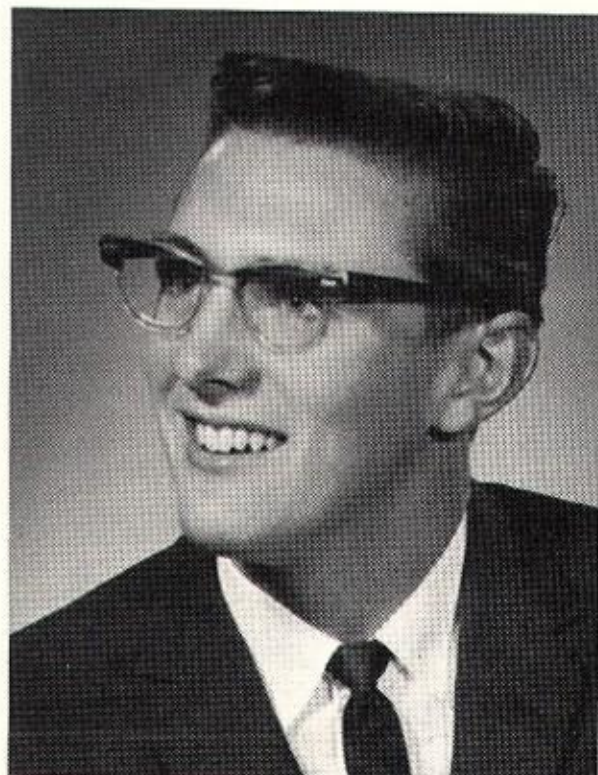

Highlighting the year was "Pigskin Panorama." Seniors boasted reign over their last Homecoming with King Ron Olds and Queen Lynne Parker wearing the crowns. Lynne Parker, Ron Olds, Becky Towne, and Paulette McCorkle led the seniors through their final year--a year of choosing and considering, plotting and pondering--a year filled with responsibility and fun. It is a year looked forward to with awe--looked backward upon with pride. It is completion--yet creation of a life of new realms to be discovered. As the view of new experiences appear, the Class of '65 face it with anticipation, hope, and determination.

Jrs.—Automated Floats, Parisian

From September to May Juniors found a busy schedule awaiting them. Students piled book upon book as term papers suddenly loomed into their educational experiences, along with advanced work in math, science, and social studies. The National Merit Scholarship Exam held the promise of financial rewards for the Junior scholars.

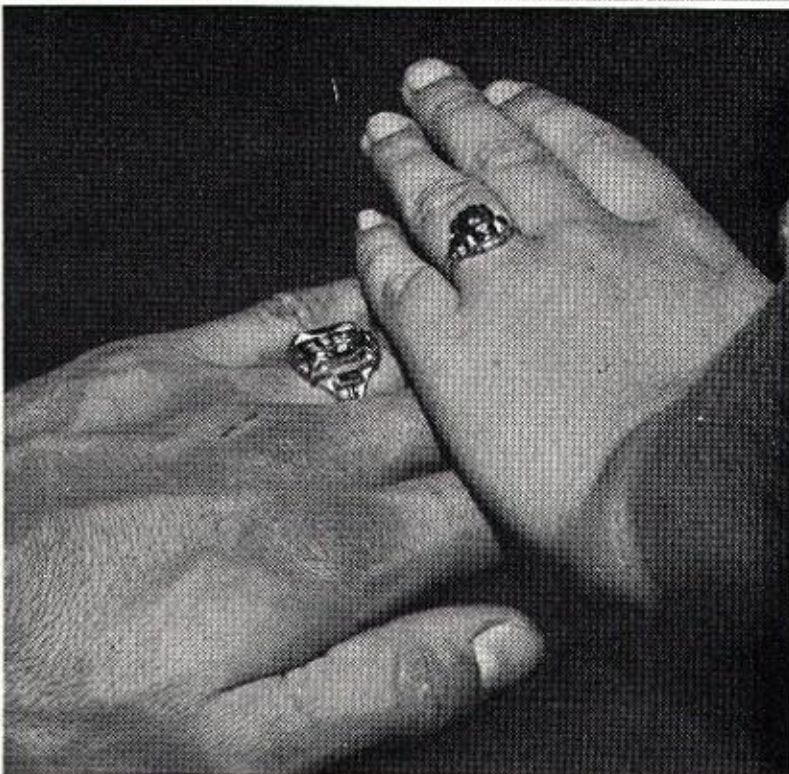

But all efforts were not concentrated on the books--there were sock hops and concessions, a float to construct, shiny new rings, exciting extracurricular activities, and a Jr. Sr. Prom which entailed hours of planning and preparation.

Jan Bell and Alan Madison were proud to represent the Class of '66 as Homecoming royalty--especially when the Juniors' unique automated float boasted 1st place. Closing the year on a romantic note, all enjoyed an evening in gay Paree, complete with Eiffel Tower and sidewalk cafes, as the Wyand gym was transformed into a Viva La France wonderland.

Sophomores—Filled with

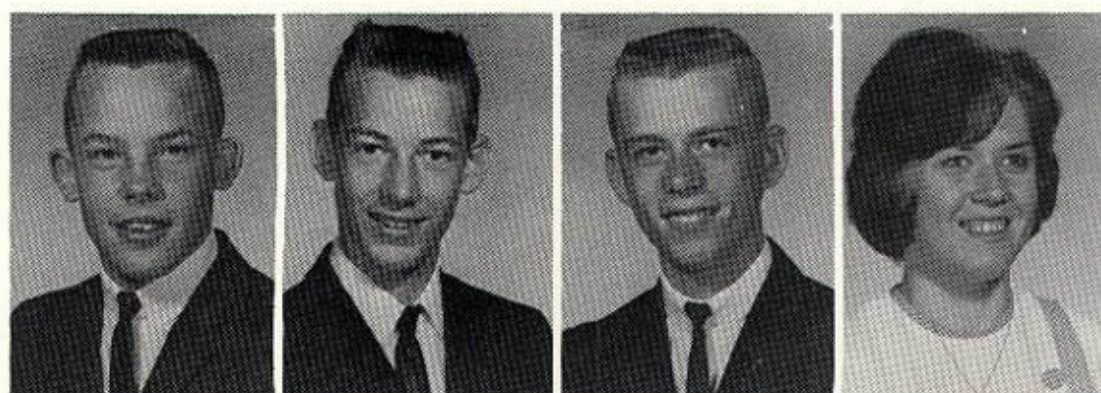

Studies, sports, royalty, and class activities made the sophomore year of the Class of '67 a year to remember. Leading them through their plans and projects were Larry Peterson, president; Jan Olds, vice-president; Greg Anthony, Secretary; and Eddie Maupin, treasurer. Kathy Swanson and Larry Peterson rode in the Homecoming Parade as royal representatives of their class.

Yes, the sophomore year is filled with memories. It marks the end of two special years, during which each student grows to know the true meaning of high school and finds his own special niche, for he realizes his fling as an underclassman is near its end--and in a few short months he will cross the threshold into the realm of upperclassmen. Anticipation? You bet!

Wandering, Wondering, Worrying Freshmen

That horrifying first day of high school, struggles with algebra, themes to write, a long-remembered Homecoming--these and other experiences adorn the minds of the freshmen as they recall their first year at W.H.S. Providing an air of fun and leadership were class president, Candy Mount; vice-president, Gary Maupin; secretary, Paul Green; and treasurer, Stuart Trumbo. Class meetings buzzed with plans for sock hops, concessions, and Homecoming activities. Elections revealed Pam Stephenson and Larry Morse were the honored royalty. The first year of high school meant to them added responsibility, new journeys into learning, and a wide realm of extracurriculars from which to choose. They accepted each with pride and managed to keep W.H.S. activities lively and gay.

F.H.A. Plans for the Future

We are the Future Homemakers of America. We face the future with warm courage and high hope, for we have the clear consciousness of seeking old and precious values. For we are the builders of homes. Homes for America's future. Homes where living will be the expression of everything that is good and fair. Homes where truth and love and security and faith will be realities, not dreams.

The Many Worlds of Music

Food . . . Fun . . . Freedom . . .

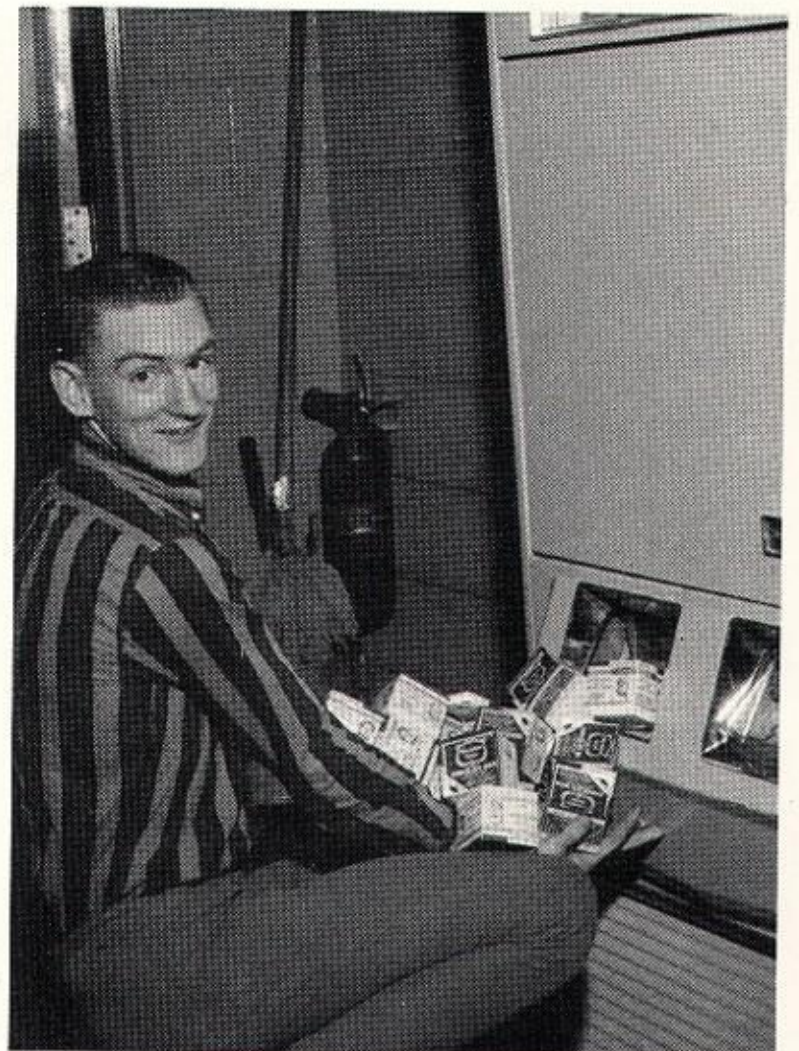

Countdown: 5-4-3-2-1 12 noon! Students burst from the portals of WHS for an attack on the cafeteria.

A constant rumble sets in for twenty minutes, enveloping catsup lovers, button pushers, last minute studiers, and heavy eaters.

The clamor then drifts down to the concession stand for an extra treat, to the ping pong room for a championship game, to the front steps for a quickly whispered secret, to the study hall for a last minute cram session, or to the gym to cheer sports-minded volleyball players.

The ring of a bell, a mad rush, a second bell ends noon hour and silence reigns in the halls once more.

Lunchtime, W.H.S.

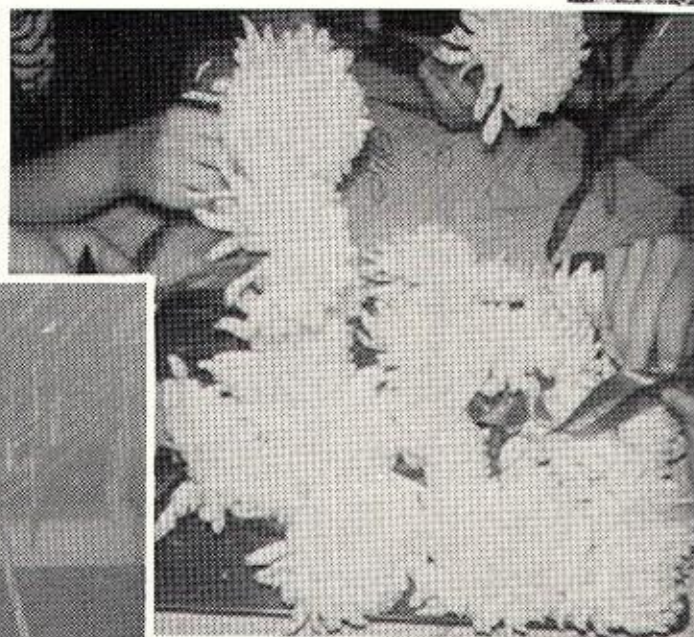

The Week Before

The week before buzzed with excitement as campaign posters for Homecoming King and Queen mysteriously appeared in every corner of the school. Some industrious students even decorated the front of the building by hanging a banner out of the study hall windows proclaiming their choice to the town.

Cheerleaders scurried to prepare a grand entrance for our football players and even scrambled up the goalposts to decorate them in purple and white; while the FHA girls busily tied purple ribbons and pinned purple W's on the white mums to sell to the fans.

The seniors were almost lost in streamers, wires, and paints but managed to find themselves in time to decorate the gym for the big "Pigskin Panorama."

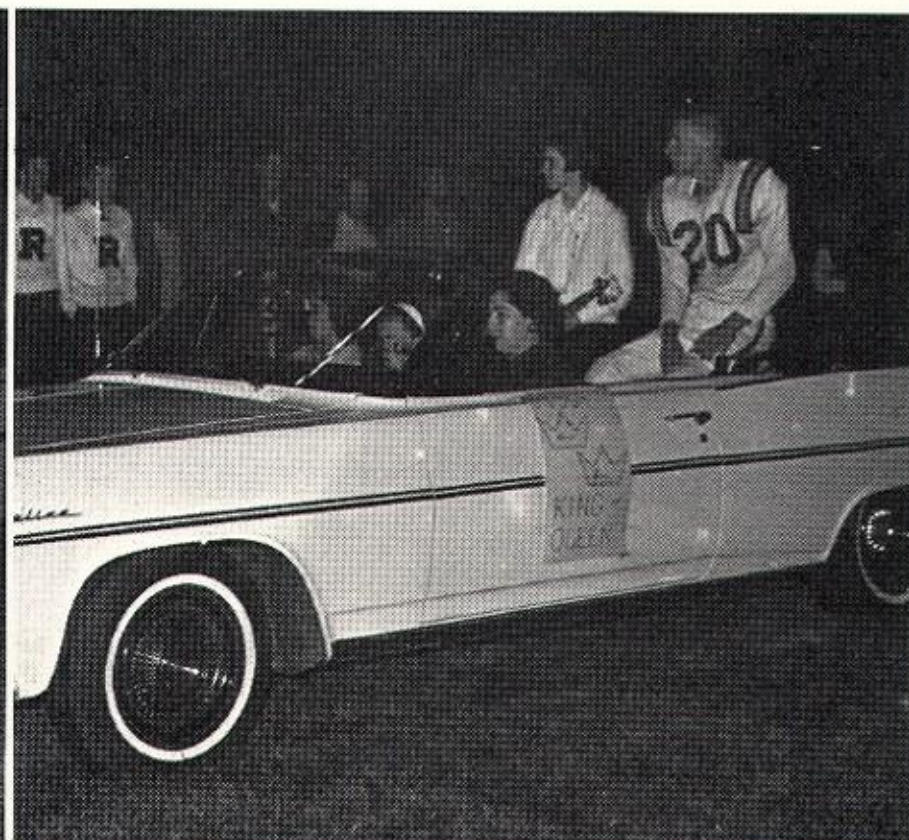

After hard studying and numerous other responsibilities, most of us found time to rush around building frames on hayracks, molding chicken wire and stuffing tissue to create our Homecoming floats.

In each building headquarters could be found coke bottles, food crumbs and blaring music surrounding the boisterous workers.

The big day dawned sunny but the wind rose to take its toll as the parade rolled on.

High-lighting our parade was the juniors' creation--WHS's first automated float. As it passed by the giant football player dumped his wheel barrow of Indian opponents, signifying everyone's wish for an Eagle victory.

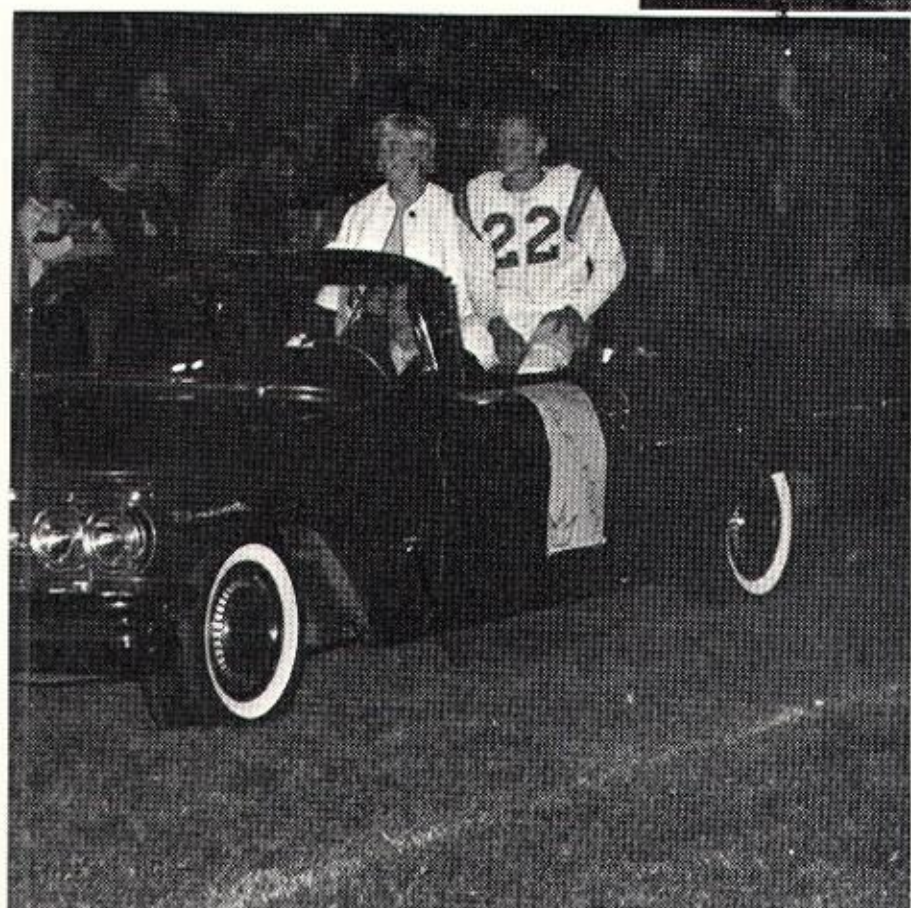

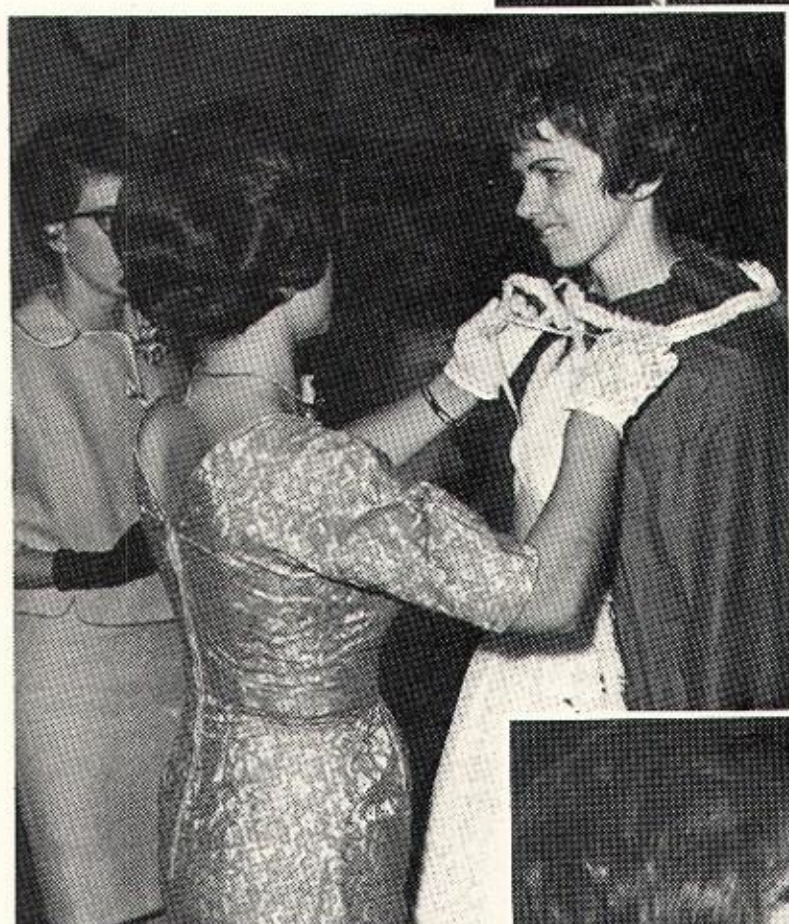

Game Time

An excited crowd was on hand to view our hard-fought football battle and appraise our Home-coming Royalty who paraded the field at half-time to the stirring music of the WHS marching band.

Hot coffee, popcorn and pop sustained the fans as they cheered the players on to fight hard, but their best wasn't quite enough to prevent the Indians from downing the Eagles 15-7.

It was just another homecoming, but a very special one for the 1964 royalty. As the band played strains of favorite melodies, tears of happiness sprang to eyes, and the royal court began the procession for a night of enjoyment at the "Pigskin Panorama."

What a Group!

On Halloween night Wyandot High School was invaded by characters ranging from Cleopatra to a ninety year old Beatle. Between these extremes of past and future were a pair of punkin heads, a seedy old couple, a baby doll, and Lawrence of Arabia and his Camel.

Activities enjoyed by these characters and their "unconventional" friends were relays, apple-eating contests, and coaches' game of Rueben and Rachel.

At the stroke of ten, these characters vanished through the portals, never to be seen again.

What's this? Turmoil at W.H.S. ! Oh, it's just that pesky Guy from Venus paying an Earth visit to Stacy's Department Store. As if earth problems weren't enough !

Space music--space men--it was true, an actual invasion at WHS as cast and crew enjoyed performing in "The Guy from Venus."

Space pace was set in the instrumental department by the stage band.

Mrs. Hochstatter and Mr. Johnson--responsible for this hectic invasion? You bet they were !

Sweethearts of Wyanet High

Reigning over the 1965 F.H.A. Sweetheart Prom was Queen Linda Etheridge and her court, Paulette McCorkle, Jan Olds and Linda Towne.

Valentine decorations of red and pink carried out the theme, My Winter Love, providing a romantic setting for the queen and her court.

Guests danced 8 to 11 to the music of Joe DeZutte and his orchestra.

Jitters . . . Judges . . .

Music was in the air as passes to practice, pages of music, and instruments from sousaphones to saxophones filled every corner and crevice of W.H.S. It was spring--time for the annual Music Contest.

Excitement, as well as music filled the air as students worked hard and long to prepare their contest selections.

But the results justified the many hours of hard practice. Under the direction of Mr. August E. Johnson, soloists and ensembles proudly brought home many superior and excellent medals.

The band also entered spring contest and received an excellent rating --A job well done in the world of music.

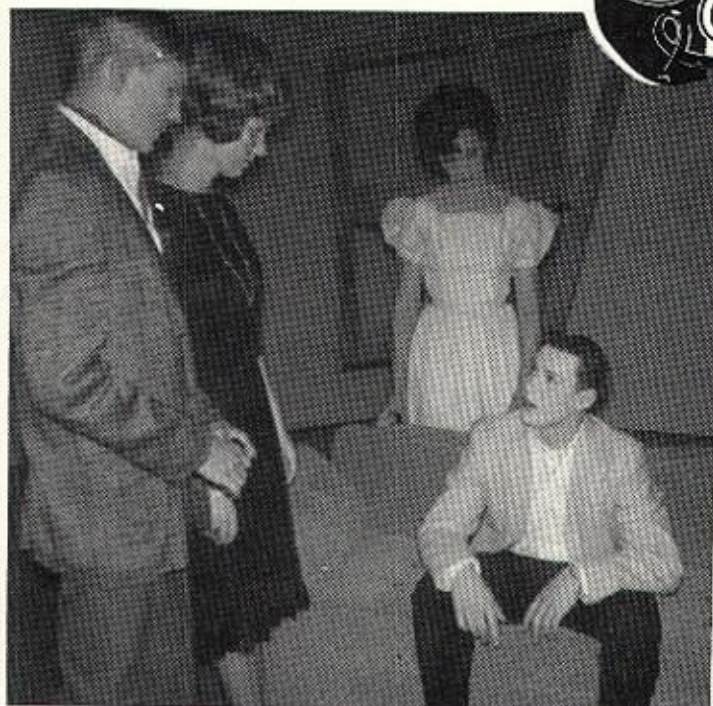

Joyous Results

In many ways the 64-65 school year was filled with new ideas and experiences. For the first time in W.H.S. history, students entered speech contest, and although plagued by jitters and judges, came home with joyous results. Gayle's oratorical declamation, Becky's humorous characterization of a little mischief-maker in "Ptt, Right in the Eye," Steve's five minute radio broadcast, and "But One Defense," an original oration by Lynne Parker won them the right to advance to Sectional Contest--a feat to be proud of.

Students in the contest play "Impromptu" found themselves also rewarded, winning the third place trophy at the Little Eight Play Contest. The eerie setting created by Mr. Stump's shop class lent atmosphere to the unusual production which was under the direction of Mrs. Jerry Hochstatter.

WHS Cindermen Burn Up

The essence of a track team is high school boys who have:

Strength--for running, jumping, and throwing.

Speed--for running races, relays and hurdles.

Stamina--to last through the events.

Spirit--to do their best for the school.

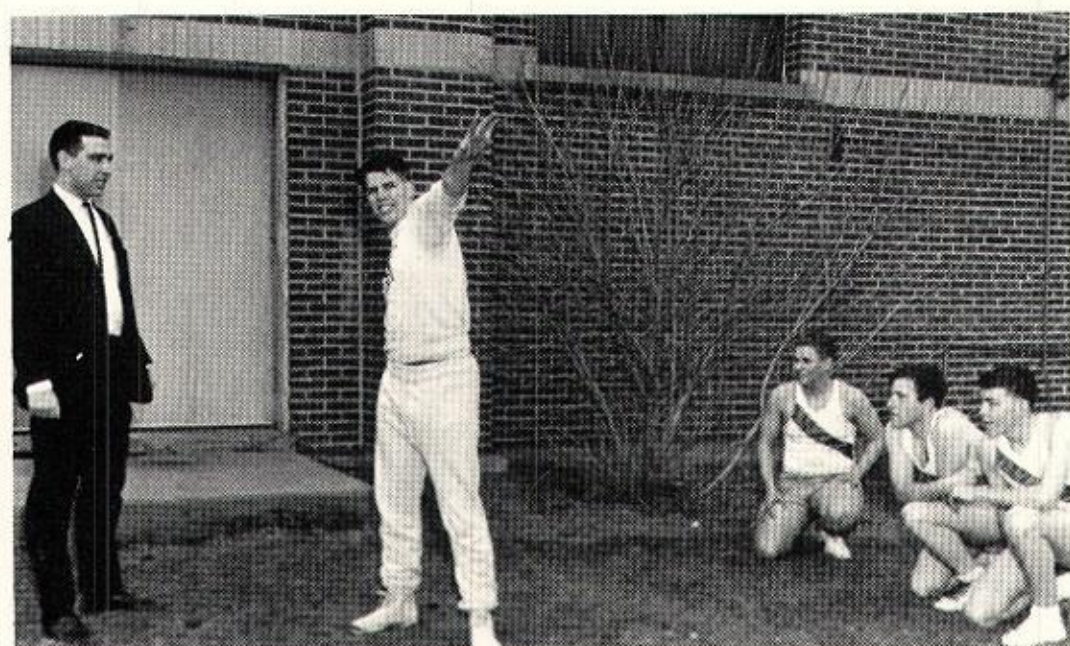

the Track

With these assets our track men compete in the high jump and broad jump; others heave the shot put and hurl the discus. Some speedsters race for 100, 220, and 440 yards, while long-winded cindermen go for 880 yards and the mile.

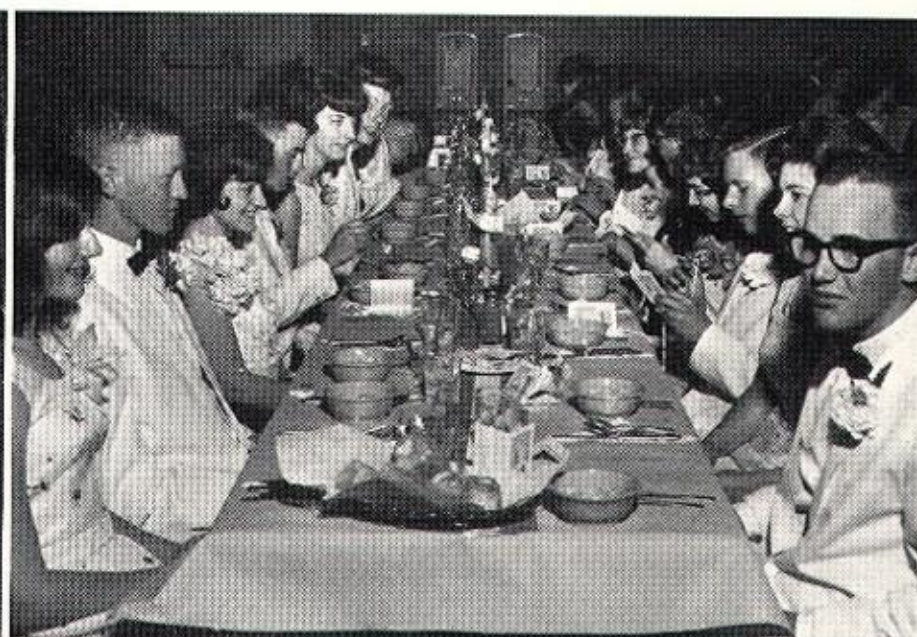

Some competitors are in rivalry with each other for laurels in the low and high hurdles, and with a team spirit, many give their all in the relays.

With good individual performances and a young team our cindermen have high hopes for the future.

Though familiar to all, each conveys a different expression; through these faces are seen the experiences of high school--the moods, the many phases . . . determination, surprise, curiosity, and the element of mischievousness that envelops and develops in our hallowed halls of learning.
